

FAQs – Chapter 2

What is the difference between Shewa and the Hateph vowels?

First of all, there is no difference in pronunciation. Both Shewa and the Hateph vowels are pronounced like the vowel sound in the word book. Hateph vowels, however, will never be silent, as a Shewa sometimes is. They will always be pronounced and transliterated.